

Ockanickon Scout Reservation COVID-19 Information:

RISK STATEMENT: Ockanickon Scout Reservation strives to provide a safe and meaningful program. As with all programs there is never 0% risk associated. The decision to attend camp should be discussed and decided on by each individual household in the unit. Ockanickon will take every reasonable step to protect our participants and staff. If you decide to come to camp you are accepting that there is a possible risk of exposure.

FAQs:

Q: Do I need to wear a mask while at camp?

A: Yes, masking is required while in camp when physical distancing cannot be maintained. This could be in a program area or in a campsite. Campers and staff need to be mindful when moving about camp to maintain physical distancing. An exception will be made for those who have it noted on their annual health and medical record and is confirmed by a licensed provider. In addition, certain program areas like the lake front and the pool have programs where, for safety reasons, masks will not be worn. Masks are also not required while eating or sleeping.

Q: Do I need to be vaccinated to come to camp?

A: No, the vaccine will not be required to attend OSR. We do strongly encourage you getting it if you are able.

Q: Will I have to test negative for COVID prior to coming to camp?

A: No, you will not be required to test before coming to camp. We will ask all participants to complete a pre-screening questionnaire and temperature screening. We also ask participants to the best of their ability to practice “behavioral quarantine” prior to coming to camp. This means maintaining a low-exposure risk 10 days prior to arrival at camp by avoiding large gatherings or travel to known hot spots 10 days prior to arrival at camp.

Q: What if I feel sick the week. Am I supposed to go to camp?

A: Stay home. If you feel sick you should not come to camp. Please do not risk the safety of the other participants and our staff.

Q: What if I am exposed to COVID prior to my arrival or I test positive and I’m not symptomatic?

A: If it has been 14 days or more since the exposure or a positive test and you feel well, you can come to camp. If it has been less than 14 days and/or you feel sick, you should not come to camp. Please do not risk the safety of the other participants and our staff.

Q: What if I start to feel sick and/or show signs of COVID while at camp?

A: You will report directly to the health lodge for further screening. In most cases you will be sent home immediately.

Q: Where are we eating meals?

A: Troops will be eating meals in their campsites. OSR will prepare and cook each meal. Units will have an assigned distribution location to pick up their food. We are strongly urging units to bring their own mess kits and wash between meals. We will supply disposable materials as a backup.

Q: Do I have to sign up for merit badges?

A: Yes, every badge in camp will require an advance sign up. Signups will open after the May 1st leaders meeting.

Q: What will qualify me for a refund if I cannot attend camp?

A: Please view our refund policy here: <https://bsawcc.org/wp-content/uploads/2020/01/OSR-Summer-Camp-Refund-Policy.pdf>. Scouts who cannot attend camp due to a COVID restriction will receive a refund.

Q: What if I test positive for COVID after leaving camp.

A: Immediately call the camp office at 215-297-5290 and ask to speak to the Camp Director. The Camp Admin team will begin looking at the program the scout or leader attended. Individuals will be contacted as needed for contact tracing.
